From the Desk of Fr. Dan

Are you unaware that we who were baptized into Christ Jesus were baptized into his death?

Water is a symbol of life. This is true not just in Christianity but in many religions and even secular things. Life as we know it cannot exist without water. Think about the image of an oasis, the watering hole, or the well. These imply life, community, and security.

But it is also true that water can be a symbol of death. Sadly, nearly 4,000 people die from drowning each year in the United States. And too much water can cause devastation. This has a biblical basis too in the story of Noah and the ark. The flood waters became the bringer of death so that new life could follow.

Both of these motifs are present in a Christian baptism. I think this can be lost in the way that modern baptisms are done. We simply pour water over someone's head. But the most ancient and traditional form of baptism is full submersion where the person is effectively "dunked" in water three times. (Side note, There was a movement 50 years ago to return to this form of baptism, but it was not practical. This practice does not fit in our culture. Back then people were baptized without clothing and nudity at public baths was normal. How many people do you think would want to be baptized today if we had them submerged naked or wearing a white garment?)

This traditional form of submersion clearly communicates what Saint Paul is saying. When we are submerged in the water, for a brief moment we cannot breathe. We experience a kind of death by drowning. Then we are lifted up out of the water to be able to breathe again. This happens three times to remind us of the rising of Christ from the dead after three days.

The Christian life involves a movement from death to life. We die to self to find life in God. We put to death our old sinful way of life and put on the white garment of Christ in all its purity. And water is the symbol of both.

Never forget that you have been baptized into Christ's death, not just his new life. This means that parts of us are supposed to die - the sinful parts of us, the parts that do not belong in God's presence. We are always called to leave these behind so we can rise up out of the waters of death into the new life that Christ won for us.

We Americans, have been a fortunate people. From our beginnings, we have never been oppressed by dictatorship; we are a democracy. While we have experienced the horror of war, we have never been invaded. While, we have not always achieved the goal of liberty and justice for all, we have not given up striving toward it. We are, indeed, most fortunate.

But such good fortune is not a matter of luck, much less a matter of unmerited blessing. The freedom we have is a freedom we must responsibly maintain. Such freedom must be worked at. Given as a gift, it must be used with care and gratitude. Each of us is called upon to value the gift. We are called as Christians as well as Americans to pass along the freedom of life and its happiness to one another without conditions or restraint. Equally so, the gift must be passed on to other people. Iraq and Afghanistan, North Korea and some of the African countries - these are just a few countries whose people struggle for the freedom we have. Some people submit, others rise up; but all know that where we are they have not yet arrived.

The wars and conflicts highlight the distance of understanding and compassion between the people of the world. Not all yet look upon each other as family. The feud of the old Hatfield's and McCoy's has magnified to the preposterous dimension of nuclear war and extinction. Anything can trigger the end of everyone! What horror!

We pray in our good fortune for all God's family whoever they are and however they think. We pray that our generation might provide for its family a greater sense of liberty and justice, equality and love. We cannot rest in our good fortune without increasing the heritage of freedom for the children of the world, all God's people and ours. May our prayers reflect these dreams of liberty and thank God for His gift to each of us.

On Independence Day

God, source of all freedom, this day is bright with memory of those who declared that life and liberty are your gift to every human being.

Help us to continue a good work begun long ago.

Make our vision clear and our will strong.

That only in human solidarity will we find liberty, and justice only in the honor that belongs to every life on earth.

Turn our hearts to the family of nations to understand the ways of others to offer friendship and to find safety, only in the common good of all.
Amen.

The seventh month is named after Julius Caesar. He was a Roman general and politician who was assassinated in the year 44 BCE, on the Ides of March, March 15. Julius Caesar had ordered that the calendar be reformed. The Roman mathematicians came up with a calendar that is almost identical to the one we use today. It is called the Julian calendar (see January 7) in honor of Julius Caesar.

Monday, July 3rd is the Feast of St. Thomas Apostle (first century)

Thomas was probably born in Galilee. The gospels don't say what he did for a living or how Jesus invited him to become a disciple. Glimpses of Thomas in the Gospel of John show a man who liked to believe the worst so that he would never be disappointed. One example of this occurred after Jesus' friend Lazarus died. Jesus decided to go into Judea, even though the authorities there were threatening to arrest him. This frightened the apostles. Possibly their lives would be in danger, too. But Thomas said to the others, "Let us also go, that we may die with him." The Gospel of John doesn't explain why Thomas was the only disciple not there when the risen Christ first appeared to the others. Later, when they told him what had happened, Thomas said he would never believe their story unless he saw and touched Jesus' wounds. A week later, Jesus graciously offered Thomas peace. He made it clear that he knew and understood Thomas' doubt. Thomas responded, "My Lord and my God!" There are various ideas about where Thomas preached after the descent of the Holy Spirit. One tradition says that he did his mission work in India. To this day a group of people living along the Malabar Coast call themselves "Christians of St. Thomas." Records show that this community is very old. They claim that their ancestors were baptized by St. Thomas himself.

Thursday, July 6 is the Feast of St. Maria Goretti Martyr (1890-1902)

Not too many people in history have lived to see their child declared a saint. But in 1950, a simple Italian woman named Assunta Goretti joined throngs of other people in the plaza outside St. Peter's as the pope canonized her daughter, Maria.

Maria Goretti died very young - she was not even 12 years old. The people of Italy were so moved when they learned the story of her life and death that they put out a loud call for her to be honored in this way.

Maria's mother and father were farm laborers, but they couldn't raise enough food in their home village to feed their four children. When Maria was about eight years old they were forced to move to a very unhealthy area - a marshland where the mosquitos carried malaria. There they became tenant farmers in partnership with a widower, Giovanni Serenelli, and his son, Alessandro. The two families shared living quarters that had once been an old dairy barn.

About a year after their move, Maria's father died and Maria's mother was exhausted, discouraged and worried. Maria encouraged her mother, tended her sisters and brothers, and was noted by all the neighbors for her cheerfulness.

Alessandro, who was about nine years older than Maria, was an angry youth who had grown up without a mother. He was usually very silent, but when Maria was 11 he made sexual advances to her. She refused him. He threatened to kill her if she told anyone. She remained silent and was careful not to be alone in the house with him.

One day Alessandro made an excuse to come back to the house when he knew Maria would be there alone. When she refused him again, he pulled out a knife and stabbed Maria repeatedly. She lived for 24 hours. During that time she forgave Alessandro and prayed for him.

Alessandro was tried and sentenced to 30 years in prison. Over time he changed completely as the result of Maria's forgiveness. When he was released, he went straight to Assunta and asked her forgiveness for taking the life of her daughter. He, too, attended the canonization of Maria Goretti.

Adoration: First Friday, July 7th St. Pius X Church

Adoration is the first Friday of each month following morning Mass and closes at noon.

The Gettysburg Address
by Abraham Lincoln
A Speech on the Occasion of the Dedication of the National Cemetery in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania
November 19, 1863

The Battle of Gettysburg was fought on July 1, 2, 3, 1863 during the Civil War.

Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in Liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation, so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battle-field of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field, as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

But, in a larger sense, we can not dedicate—we can not consecrate—we can not hallow—this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it, far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us - that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain - that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom—and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth.
